Scoring Key

Researcher use only — do not hand to participants. Maps each handout item to its source instrument and construct.

| # | Item text | Instrument | Construct | Scale |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | I felt competent at the game. | BANGS (Ballou et al., 2024) | Competence satisfaction | 1–7 |
| 2 | I felt incapable while playing. | BANGS (Ballou et al., 2024) | Competence frustration | 1–7 |
| 3 | I successfully completed challenges in the game. | BANGS (Ballou et al., 2024) | Competence satisfaction | 1–7 |
| 4 | I felt like a failure when I played. | BANGS (Ballou et al., 2024) | Competence frustration | 1–7 |
| 5 | I felt capable while playing. | BANGS (Ballou et al., 2024) | Competence satisfaction | 1–7 |
| 6 | The game made me doubt my ability. | BANGS (Ballou et al., 2024) | Competence frustration | 1–7 |
| 7 | I felt frustrated. | GEQ (IJsselsteijn et al., 2013) | Tension/annoyance | 0–4 |
| 8 | I felt annoyed. | GEQ (IJsselsteijn et al., 2013) | Tension/annoyance | 0–4 |
| 9 | I felt irritable. | GEQ (IJsselsteijn et al., 2013) | Tension/annoyance | 0–4 |

Scoring

- Competence satisfaction = mean of items 1, 3, 5.
- Competence frustration = mean of items 2, 4, 6.
- Tension/annoyance (frustration) = mean of items 7, 8, 9.

Competence satisfaction and competence frustration are scored and reported as two distinct constructs, consistent with Deliverable 4's rationale for using BANGS. Do not reverse-code and collapse them into a single “competence” number.

Why the handout differs from D4 Appendix B.2

The handout keeps the validated item wording verbatim and keeps the two response scales separate (1–7 vs 0–4). It only removes instrument names, citations and subscale headers, and interleaves satisfaction/frustration items. This avoids academic framing a young participant doesn't need, and stops “positive”/“negative” block labels from shaping how the next items are answered.
